The film stars Vijay Sethupathi, Lena, Kalabhavan Mani, Nedumudi Venu, Manju Warrier, Biju Menon, Sreenivasan, Manikuttan, Kunchan, Kalabhavan Praisadas, and Sreenath Bhasi. The film was produced by P. Balachandran under the banner of Vajra films and was released on 17 November 2010. Plot A poem is sung by Major Mahadevan (Major Mahadevan played by Vijay Sethupathi) to his grandson Dileep (Dileep played by Kalabhavan Mani), telling him to stand up for his rights. Dileep is a Rajput from the Kandahar region. He lives in a big house with his grandfather and grandmother, who are very old. In his younger days, he has often defended his community's interests by standing up for the rights of the Rajput community. Now he's married, but his wife is a Muslim. A few days before Diwali, he sets out to a village near his home. There, he finds out that the next morning his wife is going to have their first child, and Dileep's father-in-law is insisting that Dileep's wife be slaughtered immediately. This is a very big insult to the Rajput community, and Dileep has to defend his wife.
